

Since we started in 1953, law has become increasingly complex, year after year.

That's great. We just love challenges!

About us

Since 1953, Sandart&Partners specialises in giving high quality legal advice and representing clients active in businesses where IPR, technology transfer and know-how play an important role. Among our clients you will find companies from various fields, such as biotech and pharmaceuticals, engineering, finance, IT/telecom and media/advertising. Working close to our clients for more than 60 years has given us a wide and thorough understanding of both their businesses and technologies, which give us the opportunity to provide tailor-made and proactive legal services that add value to their business.

Main areas of legal expertise:

Intellectual property

Sandart&Partners has extensive experience in representing clients in intellectual property right (IPR) related litigations, covering patents, copyright, trademarks and design. Our clients in the IPR litigation area are mostly large and medium-sized European and US business entities from inter alia the pharmaceutical, biotech, telecom or other hi-tech industries. The firm also advises an array of song writers, artists and other high profile creative individuals.

Sandart&Partners provides its clients with assistance in executing business transactions, mainly by drafting, reviewing and negotiating agreements. Sandart&Partners is specialised in commercial contracts and transactions involving technology transfer and intellectual property rights, such as licensing, software development, engineering and advertisement assignments.

Market & Competition

Sandart&Partners has long experience in advising clients in their planning of all kinds of market activities. Our lawyers have extensive experience of market and competition law issues from their work with clients, in courts and with legislation, and are therefore able to adopt a wide perspective, including our clients' business interests, when providing their advice. The firm is frequently involved in market and competition law litigations.

Dispute resolution

Sandart&Partners has long experience in representing Swedish and international parties in court litigation. Further, many of us have experience as arbitrators or counsels in arbitral proceedings.
